ATOMIC AQUATICS VENOM

This high-concept mask performs as good as its looks. Built a bit larger than others in this test — with its reinforced internal frame and double-layer, dual-color silicone skirt — the Venom is really comfortable on the face. But what's immediately noticeable is the excellent horizontal view it provides, by far the best in this group. This is due to a large lens that flares out on its outside edges, made from a high-quality glass imported from Germany called Schott Superwite, which allows more light in to brighten the underwater view. The squeeze-button buckles are soft mounted to the mask skirt, providing flexibility in strap positioning, plus they can be folded flat for packing. It's a winning design that earned the Testers' Choice in the single-lens category. The Venom is also available with an antireflective coating (ARC).
